Summer Medical and Life Insurance Premiums

Faculty and staff on academic or less-than-12-month appointments will have summer medical and life insurance premiums, and any associated surcharges, collected from the last paychecks of the spring semester.

- Life insurance premiums for the summer break will be taken from the May 10 check.
- Medical premiums and the tobacco or spouse surcharges (if applicable) will continue to be taken from the May 25 check.
- Lump sum premiums for life insurance and medical premiums will be equivalent to seven pay period premiums (one May premium and all June, July, and August premiums).
- Deduction dates may vary for employees with appointment terms other than nine months.

HRS sent a direct email to the work email address of employees meeting these conditions on April 18. The email provides details about the summer premium collection schedule. Visit hrs.wsu.edu/summer-premium-collections for FAQs, examples, and additional information. Questions may be directed to HRS Benefits at 509-335-4521 and hrs@wsu.edu.

Appointments Ending May 15

Departments need to submit separation PERMS for appointments ending May 15 as soon as possible and no later than May 9.

It is imperative that separation PERMS actions be submitted if it is known an employee will not be back in the fall, or if it is uncertain if the employee will be renewed for the fall.

Summer Hours

With the academic year drawing to a close, it is time for managers to make plans for summer schedules.

Washington State University business hours are 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. year round. In keeping with a longstanding practice, many University offices observe a schedule known as summer hours while still meeting the requirement to serve the public from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

During summer hours, it is the responsibility of the supervisors and staff of each area to provide service to the public during the noon hour and from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Summer hours are approved at the department level. Review and approval from the appropriate manager is required for employees to work summer hours.

Managers may approve an employee to work a flexible work schedule, including a 4/10 schedule. The manager is responsible for determining the work schedule in accordance with the needs of the operations and applicable rules or policies.

For more information, please visit hrs.wsu.edu/managers/flexible-scheduling. Contact Human Resource Services at 509-335-4521 if you have questions.

In the event a faculty member will not be returning for fall 2018 but will have a summer appointment, a resignation PERMS should still be submitted for the end of the academic year. A separate summer appointment can then be entered into PERMS.

Please contact HRS Benefits to determine if the summer appointment will extend benefit eligibility beyond May, since that may not always be the case.

Additionally, if you have a nine-month faculty member who has submitted a resignation letter stating they will not be returning to employment for fall 2018, the resignation date should reflect the last day of their paid academic appointment, i.e., May 15, 2018. Departments are not to accept resignation letters with resignation dates that do not correspond with the paid appointment.

One way to be good stewards of University resources is to ensure timely discontinuance of employer benefit contributions for employees who are no longer eligible. Questions about appointments may be directed to HRS Benefits at 509-335-4521 and hrs@wsu.edu.

Crimson Spirit Award

Kari Sampson, college recruiter for the CAHNRS academic programs, is the Crimson Spirit honoree for May 2018.

Kari serves as advisor to the CAHNRS Ambassadors, exceptional students who aid in recruitment and retention efforts throughout the state. She was also instrumental in creating the Ignite program, which identifies and cultivates outstanding academic recruits.

She directs a program called Spark, which brings high schools, WSU Research and Extension Centers, and stakeholders together to inform high school students about research and career opportunities in the agricultural and food sciences.

Kari additionally serves as the CAHNRS liaison with community colleges throughout the state. CAHNRS is very active in creating articulation agreements with community colleges. This is an extremely involved process and not an easy or quick accomplishment. Under Kari’s direction, CAHNRS leads the university in such agreements and continues to expand them.

As her nominator notes, many of the programs Kari develops are “the first of their kind and are often copied by other colleges at the University. She is tremendously innovative and always looking for new ways to communicate with students.” Kari Sampson is recognized for exceeding expectations and providing outstanding contributions to the WSU community.

Wellcoug Wellness Tip

Exhale your worries
You can't control what happens to you, but you can control how you react. When it comes to feeling stress or anxiety, there's a simple, effective response: deep breathing. Studies show that high, sustained stress is associated with high blood pressure, anxiety, depression, and a suppressed immune system. Deep breathing is a quick, simple (and free) way to manage stress in the moment. It not only calms you, but slows your heartbeat, relaxes your muscles, decreases your feelings of anxiety, and wards off panic attacks.

How to breathe deeply
Inhale slowly through your nose until your lungs cannot hold any more air, and then push all of that air slowly out through your mouth. Take deep breaths during stress at least five times.

If you are faculty or staff enrolled in a WSU Health Plan, you may also earn SmartHealth points toward your 2018 Wellness Incentive by practicing these techniques. Learn more at the SmartHealth Activities webpage.
