Description Summary
This is an entry level faculty position that is not on the tenure-track. The title is used for faculty hired as assistant professors who arrive without having completed their terminal degree. Such faculty members are expected to complete the terminal degree during the first year of appointment or be given a terminal appointment for the second year. The title lecturer also may be used for temporary appointments to address a particular teaching need, usually for one semester and at less than 100%.

Examples of Suitable Qualifications
An appropriate earned degree in the field in which she or he will teach.
