Voluntary Retirement Plans
As the end of 2019 begins approaching, you may be thinking “How can I reduce my taxable income before the end of the year?” WSU offers two voluntary retirement plans that can help you reduce your taxable income, while simultaneously helping you set aside additional money for retirement. These voluntary accounts are separate from your PERS/TRS/LEOFF/WSURP retirement plans, and don’t come with an employer match, but are great ways to increase your retirement savings!

If reducing taxable income is not your main goal, think about setting up a post-tax or ROTH voluntary account. You can pay income tax on these contributions now, and have a tax-free account to draw from upon separation/retirement.

For more information on the voluntary plans offered through WSU, please visit the HRS Voluntary Investment Plan website. There are not many pay cycles left in 2019, so act now!
